I'm a creative storyteller with a background in architecture and a passion for visual communication. With a trained eye for detail and composition, I enjoy crafting narratives through photography, poetry, and design. Whether it's capturing moments, designing visual assets, or writing thoughtful content, I bring an intuitive, design-led approach to creative projects. My studies in architecture have shaped the way I see and build stories- structuring ideas with purpose, aesthetics, and meaning. Outside of this, I've developed skills in photography, creative writing, and Adobe tools, and love working on projects that merge visuals and words to inspire, inform, or simply connect.
